

The Politics and Practices of Food Governance

Seminar Series - Michaelmas Term 2012

Barclay Room, Green Templeton College

17 October

Wednesday, Week 2

11.30am – 1pm

Professor Charles Godfray

University of Oxford, UK

The challenge of feeding 9-10 billion people by mid-century: Is it a question of supply, demand or governance?

25 October

Thursday, Week 3

11.30am–1pm

Professor Alan Petersen

Monash University, Australia

Governing food anxieties: The role of emotion in mothers' food practices

1 November

Thursday, Week 4

(4.30–6pm at Saïd Business School)

Professor Annemarie Mol

University of Amsterdam, The Netherlands

Where is the eating body? On situating beyond anatomy

7 November

Wednesday, Week 5

11.30am – 1pm

Dr David Barling

City University London, UK

Sustainability and governance of the food supply

14 November

Wednesday, Week 6

11.30am – 1pm

Professor Julie Guthman

University of California, Santa Cruz, USA

Fat places? Re-thinking the obesogenic environment thesis and the implications for food governance

15 November

Thursday, Week 6

11.30am–1pm

Christel Schaldemose

Committee on Internal Markets and Consumer Protection, European Parliament, Belgium

Legislating for healthy food in a single European market

21 November

Wednesday, Week 7

11.30am – 1pm

Dr Richard Milne

University of Sheffield, UK

Date labelling and the governance of food quality and safety

28 November

Wednesday, Week 8

11.30am – 1pm

Dr Michael Guggenheim (TBC)

Goldsmiths, University of London, UK

Experiments in sociological food governance

ALL WELCOME - SANDWICH LUNCH PROVIDED

This seminar series is supported by Green Templeton College as well as The Oxford Martin Programme on the Future of Food and organised in collaboration with the Unit for Biocultural Variation and Obesity (UBVO) and the Science and Technology Studies (STS) Group at the University of Oxford.